November 26, 1922. Continuing on the above matter, Operative remained about Berkley Heights, N.J., all during the forenoon. During the afternoon Operative visited Plainfield, N.J.

While in Plainfield, N.J., Operative overheard considerable discussion concerning the Hall-Mills Case. It would appear that the Officials are not altogether relying on Mrs. Gibson's story, and that it is the papers that are making a whole lot of it. Furthermore, that Mr. Mott is not altogether pleased with the way she has acted toward the Grand Jury, and that Mr. Mott is somewhat doubtful about the Grand Jury Hearing after Mrs. Gibson goes before them, as they may ask her some questions that she may not be able to answer.

Operative while at the railroad station overheard a man by the name of Richardson state that he knew Mr. Hall, and that Mr. Hall was connected with a Church either in Sterling or Barnardsville, N.J., and that for some reason Mr. Hall was transferred to the Church in New Brunswick. Mr. Richardson stated that he could never find out the reason why Mr. Hall was transferred.

At about 7 p.m. Operative left Plainfield, N.J., and returned to his brotherinlaw's house at Berkley Heights, N.J., remaining there overnight so that he might proceed to Somerville, on the following morning.
